DETAILED ACTION

This action is in response to the application filed on 10/29/2007. Claims 1-18 are presented for examination.

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 10/29/2007 has been entered.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 3-7 and 12-18 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. The test for a proper dependent claim is whether the dependent claim includes every limitation of the parent claim. Claims 3-7 and 12-18 merely recite a computer for the purposes of carrying out the instructions of the parent claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 12-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as based on a disclosure which is not enabling. "A computer interpreting a data carrier to run a computer program product or computer program" as recited by the claims is critical or essential to the practice of the invention, but is not enabled by the disclosure. There is no mention of interpreting data carrier within the specification. See In re Mayhew, 527 F.2d 1229, 188 USPQ 356 (CCPA 1976).

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1-9, 16 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
5. Claim 1, line 2 recites "the system" and lines 6-7 recite "the technical system" both of which lack proper antecedent support. Proper correction is required. All depending claims are rejected as well.
6. Claim 7 recites "A computer running a computer-readable medium". It remains unclear how exactly a computer would run a medium.
7. Claim 16 recites a "computer system" according to claim 10, which recites a "computer program product or computer program". Claim 16 is rejected for changing statutory categories.

8. Claim 18 recites a "method" according to claim 16, which recites a "computer system" according to claim 10, which recites a "computer program product or computer program". Claim 18 is rejected for changing statutory categories.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

9. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

10. Claim 1 appears to be directed to a recitation of abstract ideas (for example, "providing a system of equations") and mathematical algorithms. While the simulation of an electrical network is useful, there is no tangible result from the steps. The claims recite outputting error information, but fail to recite how this error information is "output". Therefore the method does not provide a concrete, useful, or tangible result. All depending claims are rejected as well.

11. Claims 7, 14, and 15 recite a "computer-readable medium". However, the specification recites that a "computer-readable medium" may be a "carrier signal for distance communication" (page 31, lines 5-10). Therefore, the claims are directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claims that recite nothing but the physical characteristics of a form of energy are nonstatutory natural phenomena, therefore a claim reciting a signal encoded with functional descriptive material does not appear to fall within any statutory category of patentable subject matter.

12. Claims 10, 11, 16, and 17 recite "A computer program product or computer program". Computer programs do not fall within a statutory category of patentable subject matter as computer programs comprise software per se. All depending claims are rejected as well.
